

Feng Chen

DSO Department, Marshall School of Business, University of Southern California
fchen@marshall.usc.edu

EXPERIENCE

Marshall School of Business, USC – Los Angeles, CA

Assistant Professor of Clinical Data Sciences & Operations

Fall. 2019 - Present

Lecturer

Fall 2018 – Spring 2019

Adjunct Professor

Fall 2009 – Spring 2018

Courses taught: Operations Management, Business Analytics, Statistics and Data Science for Business

SERVICE

GSCM Graduate Admission Committee

2020 – Present

Advisor of Business Analytic Emphasis

2021 – Present

RTPC Faculty Committee

2021 – Present

Center of Global Supply Chain Management

2015 - 2018

Co-Lead of Port Solution Project

- Affiliate the communication between the student team and stakeholders such as POLA, POLB, Mattel, EMS and Union
- Hold weekly meeting with the student teams to plan and run progress check.
- Transit the project to new student teams after the one team graduates.
- Join stakeholder meeting and help with the student team in presenting the project to stakeholders.

The National Society of Leadership and Success

2017 - Present

- Oversee the chapter, ensure that the organization operates within the guidelines of the university.

RESEARCH INTEREST

Designing and running experiments on behavioral issues in Operations Management.

Role and impact of incentive system in supply chain.

Empirical study on supply chain analytic.

Inventory and assortment, Supply chain Management.

EDUCATION

University of Southern California

December 2008

Ph.D, Operations Management

University of Southern California

May 2003

Master of Business Administration

Zhongshan (Sun Yat-sen) University – Guangzhou, China

June 1999

Bachelor of Science in Computer Science

RESEARCH PAPER

Chen, F., Y. Bassok. 2008. “Substitution and Variety”

Chen, F., Y. Bassok. 2008. “Group Power in Negotiation — an experimental study”