

The professors and curriculum at Marshall holistically approach creating well rounded and robust executives. By combining academic rigor with introspective leadership development, the program guides students through developing strengths and reinforcing gaps. The curriculum maintains an emphasis on practical application of modern leadership theory and rigorous skill development throughout.

Jose Roca-Leon, MBA.PM Class of 2025
Senior Consultant, Business Consulting Finance, EY

The MBA.PM program at Marshall allowed me to immediately apply the concepts learned in class to my work, demonstrating the value of my education. Through this program, you build skills that prepare you for the future of a complex business world, but more importantly, you build connections with classmates and world-class faculty who will help you along your career as supporters, business partners, investors, and friends, and those connections are invaluable.

Nick Swancott, MBA.PM Class of 2025
Strategic Campaigns Coordinator, OLEDWorks

Like many, I joined USC to experience the Trojan Network. The Marshall community has been an incredibly supportive and transformative part of my journey. The relationships I've built with peers, mentors, and alumni have been instrumental in my growth. Surrounded by driven, like-minded individuals, I've experienced firsthand how we uplift and challenge each other to succeed. This collaborative environment fosters not only professional growth but also deep personal connections, where we celebrate each other's successes and help overcome challenges. Being part of this community has shaped my confidence and expanded my network, leaving me empowered to thrive in both my career and personal life.

Natali M. Alejo, MBA.PM Class of 2025
Senior Financial Analyst, FP&A and Capital Investments, Raytheon
